

SENATE SELECTING GIFT FOR BRIDE

Present to Miss Wilson in All Probability Will Be Silver Tea Set.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Washington, November 12.—The present of the United States Senate to Miss Jessie Wilson, to fund for which has now reached the $600 mark and is hourly growing upwards, will be a mass of silverware. Senator Martin, head of the committee which has in charge the collection of the fund and the purchase of the gift, is said to have made a statement on the matter probably will be issued in a day or two, and then referred to his long office pursued by a corps of silver smelters and jewelry experts.

The Senate gift will in all probability be a silver tea set. That is the choice of the majority of the Senators at the present time.

Society folk here who remember the Alice Roosevelt wedding, say that if Miss Jessie Wilson receives as many useful gifts as did Mrs. Longworth, she need not worry for years about household supplies or furnishings. Mrs. Longworth received as wedding gifts twelve chests of silver, ten sets of fancy dishes, two complete sets of cut glass, one of the best of the kind, a handsome clock, twelve Oriental rugs, fifteen dozen silver spoons and knives and forks, and a handsome gilded tapestry from the President of France and a set of Saxony dishes from the Emperor of Germany. Many of these gifts have never been used, and in some instances have not been lifted from their cases.

The date of the wedding in Thanksgiving week has inspired some humble farmers' admirers of the President and his daughter to send in enough fruits, nuts and vegetables not only for the festivities, but to stock the larder of the Whitehouse and the honeymoon cottage at Williamstown for the winter.

DELIGHTS ELON AUDIENCE.
Dr. Randolph Offers Scholarly Address on French Literature.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Elon College, N. C., November 12.—Dr. E. E. Randolph, professor of modern languages in the college, last evening gave to the student body, faculty and friends of Elon College a rare intellectual treat by discussing the character of the French language and its adaptation to French literature. Dr. Randolph said:

"When Caesar conquered Gaul he introduced into the province the best available teachers of Rome and Athens. Gaulish students were eager to learn. They were taught the pure classical Latin. The laws and church documents were written in Latin. But the great middle stratum of society which made the language speak a corrupt, Latinized language. This dialect, later enriched by a strong Greek element, formed the basis of modern French. Over 30 per cent of the words can be traced directly to their Latin originals. Only a few of the German and English words and idioms remain to give independence and vigor to the language. On the establishment of the French Academy in 1635 the language received more and more that correctness, exactness and polish that made it suitable for the finished literature of the age of Louis XIV. It was the one aim of the framers of the language to make it vigorous, precise and severe. It is practically impossible to conceive of a well-constructed French sentence as ambiguous."

FEELS ITS FOUL BLOW UPON HIS OWN LIFE

Governor Patterson Stirs Anti-Saloon League With Bitter Attack on Liquor.

TRAIL IS SEEN EVERYWHERE

Kansas Executive Predicts Resolution Prohibiting Intoxicants as Beverages.

Columbus, O., November 12.—Predicting that a resolution prohibiting intoxicants as beverages in the United States and all territories under its jurisdiction soon would be adopted by Congress, and declaring that "if I am then Governor of Kansas, I will immediately convene the Legislature in special session if necessary for the purpose of ratifying the amendment," Governor George H. Hodges, of Kansas, to-night threw the fifteenth biennial convention of the American Anti-Saloon League into an uproar of applause.

Governor L. B. Hanna, of North Dakota, another speaker, gave statistics to show the prosperity of his State under "prohibition" reign and said the brewers "year book" showed no consumption in his State of their manufacture in 1911.

The day session was brought to a climax with a stirring address by former Governor M. R. Patterson, of Tennessee, in which he gave reasons for his enlisting with the anti-saloon movement.

Not Always Friends.
"The Anti-Saloon League and I have not always been friends," said Mr. Paterson. "The path we traveled were wide apart. But the path I traveled turned, of course, it ran into the other, and we now find ourselves in the same road, marching in the same direction, actuated by the same desire to destroy the traffic in liquor and redeem a nation from its curse."

"I don't mind having been ashamed to stand before this great audience and acknowledge the wrong when I once advocated legislation which would have made legal a trade which I have to look upon as having no rightful place in Christian civilization."

Commenting on one of his own messages to the Tennessee Legislature, in which he urged further legislation to regulate the saloon traffic, Mr. Patterson declared that at that time there were his honest convictions based upon a misguided judgment. Continuing, he said:

"I have seen the trail of liquor in the criminal courts where I have prosecuted crime. I know and have been a participant in its paralyzing and corrupting influence in the social and public life of our national capital. As the Governor of Tennessee, I have seen it a veritable and raging center of storm, around which gathered its defenders and assailants, and from which sprang divisions in parties, disputes in families and discussions in churches."

Feels Its Stealthy Blow.
"Going through life, I have seen it drag down many of the noblest of my boyhood, blasting their hopes and consigning them to untimely graves. I have seen its forked lightning strike my first-born—the child of my young manhood. At last I have felt its foul and stealthy blow as it turned upon me in its deadly and shaming wrath—upon me who had pleaded before the people for its very existence."

"I cast aside all pride of opinion and went to the throne of Almighty God. There on knelt knees I asked for light and strength, and they came. I stand a convicted felon, and must receive the sentence of the law. I must go, never to return, and with the going of the saloon liquor itself should go."

The saloon convention called for three sessions to-morrow, the convention concluding its work to-morrow night.

SOVEREIGN is the great all-Southern cigarette. Made right in the South, for Southern smokers, from Southern-grown Old Belt tobacco. Breaking all sales records—"QUALITY TELLS."

Southerners recognize in SOVEREIGN the fine, fragrant, Old Belt, Virginia-North Carolina tobacco that they love to smoke. And they find something even more enjoyable—a wonderful smoothness and mellowness that are absolutely new—the result of careful aging and skillful blending of this famous Southern-grown tobacco. They get all the fragrance and flavor of the tobacco when they smoke SOVEREIGN, because the cigarettes burn evenly—do not smoulder and "go out." This is due to the better grade of paper used on SOVEREIGN—the most expensive cigarette paper ever imported from France. SOVEREIGN sales have reached nearly 100,000,000 a month in 18 months—are increasing 10,000,000 a month breaking all records for popularity—"QUALITY TELLS."
